

Writing in PreK-3rd Grade Classrooms Storytelling, Drawing, and Writing

3-Part Series

Writing in PreK-3rd Grade Classrooms series will provide

- Support to teachers in launching writing in the classroom and sustaining the practice across the school day
- Focus on writing practices that support emerging to conventional writers, connect writing to reading and content areas, and addressing different types of writing for young children
- Cycles of professional development that involve learning new instructional methods, applying them in the classroom, and documenting their impact
- One on-site visit from a LLP coach to conduct classroom observations, meet with grade level teams, and/or work with administrators to provide targeted feedback based on teacher and administration preference
- CPDUs for attendance

Goals of the Series

- Understand the developmental continuum of storytelling, drawing, and writing
- Analyze the components of writing workshop and how to implement the components in a PreK-3rd grade classroom
- Plan for writing that balances teacher and child-initiated writing
- Recognize and build teaching practices in storytelling, drawing, and writing that directly support reading development

Learning Labs

- Three 3-hour sessions
- Fall series or Spring series

Location

To be determined based on participating teachers

Pricing

(PreK-3rd Grade Teams)

- Up to 10 teachers—$5,000
- 11-15 teachers—$7,500
- 16 or more teachers—$10,000

For more information, please contact:

Sue Mitra, EdD

Associate Director of Professional Development,
Language and Literacy Partners
smitra@erikson.edu

Sarah Morrow, MM

Program Manager, Language and Literacy Partners
smorrow@erikson.edu

---

Gillian McNamee, PhD

Director, Language and Literacy Partners
gmcnamee@erikson.edu

We are an IL-EMPOWER approved learning partner