Online Master of Science in Child Development, Child Life Leadership Concentration

This new online program is designed for Certified Child Life Specialists (CCLS) seeking to grow their expertise in leadership and advocacy roles within the field of child life. Today's CCLS must oversee a growing number of tools, supporting the child and management of people and operations. Students will gain skills in developing and administering child life programs to produce better outcomes for children within hospital settings. As a part of the health care team, students will learn about how they can implement research to advocate for child life in many settings including outside of the hospital.

The non-licensure degree features four core courses in child development and six courses in child life leadership. The program culminates in a digital Capstone Project that allows you to implement child life research into a real-world setting. All projects will be reflective of your academic and work experiences.

Career Opportunities

Graduates of our Online Master of Science in Child Development with Child Life Leadership concentration can pursue careers as child life directors within a hospital setting. Similar roles can be found within alternative settings such as hospice care, dental clinics, judicial courts, children's advocacy centers, school districts, and private practice.

Why Erikson?

- Core courses in child development with six concentration courses to help you develop leadership and advocacy skills for child life programs.
- Faculty are experts and scholars in the field including child life directors at leading hospitals.
- We offer flexibility with full- and part-time program lengths.
- Access to dedicated advisors, academic writing support, library, career services, and student services.

Now more than ever, the role of a leader matters immensely in determining optimal results for a child life team. Our online program will help provide the vision and direction for the successful planning and operation of a child life department.”
